DEPRESSION IN COTTON TRADE REVEALS LACK OF EFFICIENCY

Boom Of Few Years Ago Attracted Many Chinese

NEED TRAINING

Laxity Of Mill Management Hurtful Factor

BY DAVID ARAKIE

The rapid expansion of the cotton spinning industry during the past few years and the present depression in the industry has brought into prominence the deficiencies in the working of the mills, particularly the Chinese mills.

The boom of a few years ago in cotton spinning, due to the shortage of yarn all over the world, very naturally attracted Chinese to the industry; men who knew that modern cotton spinning was at that time producing very handsome returns and thought that all they had to do was to purchase the requisite machinery, erect the mills and receive the fat dividends which they thought would be sure to come.

They did not realise that even the most up-to-date machinery is not entirely automatic and that it is not possible to work modern mill machinery on the principle of "you press the button we do the rest." Modern cotton mill machinery is complicated and demands the attention of men specially trained if it is to be worked successfully.

The erection of mills in China went on merrily but unfortunately for those who invested in the industry, when the mills were erected, it was found that many of the managers and engineers engaged to look after them, were unequal to the task. Too late it was realised that because a man had general business ability or because a fitter had some experience in mill work, was not necessarily capable of conducting the business of a cotton mill.

"ILL-CONSIDERED"

Though perhaps it is not quite fair to say that much of the expansion was illegitimate, a great deal of it was ill-considered. Many of the mills, contracted for during the boom, were erected by companies of men who had no previous experience of the industry and who merely went into the business because it looked profitable at the time. These mills are the chief sufferers now while the mills which were erected by those who knew the industry, though suffering, are suffering to a less extent and in many cases though not making a profit, are at least not losing heavily.

The true reason for the lack of success on the part of the mills is evidently not yet fully realised by those in control, otherwise they would do something to rectify matters. They either attribute the losses to the general unrest throughout the country which is, of course, a most potent factor or to the excessive expansion of the industry which is incorrect if considered from the view point of China's needs.

The fact is that many of the mills are inefficiently managed and that, were they to effect changes in the management and employ competent men, production would increase by leaps and bounds and, notwithstanding conditions due to Governmental ineptitude, the mills would probably be able to cover their overhead expenses.

The remedy is obviously to employ trained engineers and managers and, as there are not sufficient competent Chinese at the present time, until such time as there are a sufficient number of properly trained Chinese to undertake the work efficiently, foreign engineers and mill managers should be engaged. The objection of the Chinese to this remedy is one of dollars and cents forgetting that, though the foreigners would receive large salaries compared with Chinese, the increased production obtained would cover the increased cost many times over.

The success of a mill depends upon the ratio between production per spindle and overhead expenses, and, therefore, any improvement that can be effected

SMILES FROM THE MIXED COURTS

BY J. L. BUTTS

Returning to his home at 40 Scott Road a few evenings ago Lee Soo-yi went through the customary grimaces indicative of astonishment, then fell to scratching his head and rapidly running over in his mind his recent dealings with the landlord.

Just outside the door of the house reposed most of Lee's belongings. There was his bedding and there were practically all of his spare garments as well as several articles of bric-a-brac which erstwhile had embellished his quarters, all neatly gathered into a compass suitable for easy and rapid transportation. Bethinking himself that his rent was paid to date and that his conduct had been exemplary, Lee bounded up the stairs to his room, bent on demanding reasons for this unnotified eviction. In his room he found Ching Ah-tsa, whose arms were laden with the rest of the lodger's possessions.

Without going through the formality of introducing himself or entering into explanations regarding his presence, Ching dropped his burden and greeted Lee with a vicious punch in the eye. Lee grappled with his assailant and the ensuing uproar attracted a large crowd of neighbors and a couple of constables.

His sole reason for entering the premises, Ching stated later in Court, was that he was searching for a friend, a proceeding, he submitted, which in no way conflicted with the criminal code. That he hadn't stolen anything was borne out by the evidence of the complainant himself, who admitted that he found all his possessions when he came home. As to the damaged state of Lee's eye, that was the result of Lee's coming so suddenly upon him, taking him completely by surprise and throwing him involuntarily into an attitude of self-defense. The whole thing was Lee's fault and might have been avoided if Lee hadn't come bursting in as he did.

The Court agreed with this latter opinion and informed Ching that therefore he would be assigned a fixed address for the ensuing two months where his friends may call at stated hours.

MUST BE THE REASON

It was this same yearning for the society of an acquaintance that led Waung Nyi-ching to the lodgings of Kyoong Nyi-tsong, at 272 Yunnan Road. Waung also was unsuccessful in locating the object of his quest and he was just leaving the house with Kyoong's best silken gown when the owner collided with him at the threshold.

"I went to the place looking for a friend. He was not there. So I took the gown," said Waung, as one who would bring light to bear upon a misunderstood incident.

BOUDOIR NOTE

One month's surcease from the cares of calling for Waung.

Yang Ping-san, caught by a watchman as he was putting a large chunk of iron under his jacket at the Riverside power station, explained that he was only borrowing the metal for the night in order to raise his pillow.

Wood Denies He And Quezon Have Broken

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 4.—Governor-General Wood, upon his return to Manila, issued a statement in which he denied that there had been a break between him and Senate President Quezon. At the same time General Wood expressed appreciation for the co-operation the Legislature had given him up to the present time and predicted a continuance of friendly relations between the executive and legislative departments.

DOCKERS' STRIKE EXTENDS, 25,000 MEN NOW IDLE

Workers Object To Method Of Calculating Cost Of Living Figure

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—The dockers' strike has seriously extended and 25,000 men are now idle, including 14,000 in London. The men are dissatisfied with the method of calculating the cost of living figure, by the fall in which reductions in wages are determined. They declare that it does not cost a docker a shilling a day less to live. The leaders point out that the agreement signed in September last, making wages dependent on the cost of living, must be upheld. They point out that the men will benefit when the cost of living rises.

The dissatisfaction of the men was voiced in the House of Commons this afternoon by Mr. Will Thorne. Sir Montague Barlow, the Minister of Labor, in reply, emphasised that the question was governed by the agreement. The time was inopportune to inquire into the method of calculating the cost of living as working-class conditions were not yet normal.

The Speaker refused a motion proposed by Mr. Jack Jones for an adjournment with a view to a discussion.

PARIS DEDICATES MEMORIAL TO U.S. WAR VOLUNTEERS

Fourth Of July Celebration Takes Form Of Unveiling

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 4.—Paris this morning commemorated the 147th Anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence.

President Millerand sent a message to President Harding recalling the sufferings borne in common to preserve the liberty of the world and expressing the hope that the affection uniting the two countries would become closer still.

The unveiling of a memorial, the work of Jean Boucher and erected by public subscription, to the American volunteers took place in United States Square in the presence of the Premier, the United States Ambassador, Marshals Foch, Joffre and Petain, General Mangin, official personages, and delegations of pupils from colleges and schools of the City of Paris. General Mangin, on behalf of the Memorial Committee, recalled the enthusiasm of the first American volunteers which was expressed by the poet Allan Seeger, whose verses will be engraved on the memorial.

The President of the Paris Municipal Council and the Prefect of the Seine then spoke, pointing out the high significance of the ceremony.

M. Poincare recalled the spontaneous intervention of La Fayette on the side of the American troops and showed that the principles with which the American Congress were inspired were those of the French encyclopaedists which flowered some years later in the declarations of "the rights of man." After referring to the courageous attitude of the United States Ambassador, Mr. Herrick, in 1915, the heroism of the Lafayette squadron, and the precious help of the American "Field Service," M. Poincare declared that the volunteers formed the advance-guard of the American armies, showed their fellow citizens the real meaning of the war, communicated their ardor and confidence, and dispelled the fogs in which German lies had tried to envelop the soul of America.

In conclusion the Premier asked if "humanity after having contributed to save innocent countries from the claws of Germany would look on with indulgence at Germany trying to overthrow the victory, to prepare revenge and to ruin the peoples whose territories she has ravaged."

The American Ambassador, Mr. Herrick, emphasised the unanimous rush to subscribe to the memorial. "The money has come from all corners of France, from persons of every condition, from soldiers and even from poor children and widows."

Professor Joseph Bedier of the Academie Francaise is to give a series of lectures in various American schools.

Miners Purchase Herrin, Ills., Pits

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Springfield, Ill., July 5.—Union officials here today confirmed the report that the Illinois Mine Workers Union had purchased the Lester Strip mines at Herrin where the Herrin riots occurred a year ago. The purchase price was $726,000. The riots at the mines between mine workers and guards was the cause of a nation-wide scandal.

Decision to hold the meeting Thursday was made at the regular tiffin of the club yesterday at the Union Club. The next regular meeting of the club will be open to guests.

Japanese Seeking Pact With Soviet

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 5.—Reliable travellers who have just returned from trips through Japan declare that the Japanese are working hard to reach an amicable agreement with the Soviet in order to present a solid Asiatic front against the Western nations.

The military spirit is more rampant than ever in Japan, the travellers say, and a vigorous movement is on foot to foster this militarism among the young of the nation. The proposed agreement is said to be extremely popular among the mass of the Japanese.

S. Manchurian Ry. Wants To Issue Loan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 29.—The South Manchurian Railway has applied to the Department of Finance for permission to issue a foreign loan to the amount of thirty million yen (yen 30,000,000) and the application has been approved. The proceeds of this loan are to be devoted to new enterprises.

For the redemetion of the Company's thirty-five million yen's worth of bonds, maturing shortly, recourse is being had to the domestic money market, and new bonds to the value of twenty million yen are being issued, the remaining fifteen million yen being redeemed in cash.

Wilson's Daughter In Business On Own

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

New York, July 5.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of ex-President Wilson, entered actively into her future career as a business woman today when she completed an extremely large contract for one of the largest advertising concerns in New York.

Miss Wilson announced some time ago that she would go into business and the contract she secured today is the first visible evidence that she has followed out her intention.

Chinese Chamber Fetes Powell; Urges Merchants To Reconstruct Nation

Bandits Will Rule China Unless Business Men Take Hand In Government; American Public Opinion Less Favorable, Speaker Asserts

A note of warning was sounded by Mr. J. B. Powell, editor and publisher of the Weekly Review of the Far East and ex-captive of the Lincheng bandits, at a reception given in his honor by the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce yesterday in a lengthy address on Chinese political chaos.

"Unless the merchants, the educated class and the property holders come to the realisation that they must themselves devise some means of saving the situation, bandits will rule China. The bottom layer of the social strata will control the nation. You are the losers," said Mr. Powell in part.

The meeting was well attended. Among those present were mostly directors of the chamber, including Mr. H. Y. Moh, Mr. Yu Yah-ching, Mr. Lauo King Kee, Mr. Yuan Li-tung, Mr. S. U. Zau, Mr. S. S. Feng, Mr. Hsu Kwan-nan, Mr. Yih Huai-chun, Mr. Chu Wei-ching and other influential merchants. Mr. Fong Chu-pa, vice-chairman, presided and delivered the following address of welcome:

PAYS TRIBUTE

"On behalf of the General Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai, it gives me great gratification to extend to you our very cordial welcome. Let us avail ourselves of this opportunity of referring to a few outstanding traits of your remarkable career in this country, traits which enhance that high esteem with which this Chamber has always regarded you.

"As editor and publisher of the Millard's Review, now the Weekly Review of the Far East, for a period of more than six years, you have been an indefatigable advocate of the principles and policies that make for peace and justice, and as an eloquent pleader of the political and social friendship between America and China, your noble efforts, which we deeply appreciate, have contributed to the rapid growth of American-Chinese amity and trade within recent years.

"In your capacity of Secretary to the American Chamber of Commerce, you had been in communication with this Chamber in connection with various problems. We have seen the spirit of co-operation assume concrete form in the correspondence which you had conducted, and if we want to find out the secret of the harmonious relationship existing between the American Chamber of Commerce and this Chamber, we shall have it in this one word which is the backbone of all Sino-foreign intercourse, co-operation.

"As a journalist, we have had many occasions of admiring the sanity of your editorial views which were free from radical tendencies. You had faithfully borne in mind the fact that China is in a transitional period, and as

REFUGEES FROM ELDORADO ARRIVE IN SHANGHAI

A Few Russians Land Despite Order; Gensan Refugees Suffering

Several of the Russian refugees who came to China on the Eldorado, now anchored off the mouth of the Ningpo river, arrived in Shanghai yesterday, having succeeded in escaping the vigilance of the Chinese authorities who issued an order prohibiting any of the refugees from landing in China and coming to Shanghai.

From them last night THE CHINA PRESS learned that approximately 1,000 refugees are still left in Gensan and living under extremely difficult conditions. They are nearly all housed in mud huts in a district which is surrounded by an old moat, according to the information, and there have already been several outbreaks of typhoid fever because of the unhealthy conditions.

JAPANESE POLICY

The Japanese, the refugees report, at first intended to repatriate all the Russians to Soviet Russia, but have now announced that they can go anywhere they wish if they will only go. Information on that point is conflicting, however, as the Japanese are also reported as having refused permission for the Russians to go until the question of arms and ammunition they brought with them when they fled from the Red troops occupying Vladivostok has been settled.

NEGOTIATIONS TO DETERMINE FINAL STATUS OF ENTENTE

Situation Between London And Paris Admittedly Difficult

OPTIMISM FELT

Some Journals Say Situation Has Already Cleared

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—It is understood that the Cabinet this morning heard Marquess Curzon's account of his discussions with the French and Belgian Ambassadors yesterday on the Ruhr.

Official circles are very secretive on the matter in view of the undesirability of emphasising differences between the Allies.

It is admitted that the situation is difficult and that the present conversations will have a decisive bearing on relations between Britain and France.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 4.—At Brussels the cordial character of the conversations between Marquess Curzon and the Belgian Ambassador in London are emphasised.

The Temps understands that the Belgian Government has no thought at present of taking the initiative in calling a conference of the heads of Governments.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 4.—Vorwaerts announces that the directing committee of the German Socialist Party has decided to request the Government to take up immediately a clear position against its present policy.

German reports try to convey the impression that as a result of the sanctions taken by the Belgian authorities the feeding of the German population in the occupied territory is again threatened. The Belgian General Staff officially declares that no complaint has been received on the matter and that the entry of railway waggons into any part of the Ruhr continues to be entirely free.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 4.—Certain British newspapers, including the Westminster Gazette, emphasise the friendly character of the conversations yesterday between Marquess Curzon and the French Ambassador, the Comte de St. Aulaire, stating: "The reports spread by certain British newspapers are entirely devoid of foundation and in no way represent the point of view of the London Government." The Daily Chronicle notes that at the conclusion of the conversations it was understood with satisfaction that the discussions have tended to clear up the situation.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—It is understood that the Italian Ambassador, who visited Marquess Curzon yesterday, presented the views of Signor Mussolini, who increasingly inclines to the British view on the Ruhr question and the British plan for the settlement of reparations.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 5.—An official return shows that the French and Belgian authorities expelled over 1,600 railwaymen and 4,000 members of their families from the occupied territory during the second half of June.

(Reuter's Service)

Cologne, July 5.—The cordon round the Ruhr and the occupied territories is as close as possible. The stationary patrols are within sight of each other, while the flying patrols are engaged in preventing evasion through fields and by-paths.

The severe restrictions at Aix-la-Chapelle include prohibition of the use of taxi-cabs by Germans. The only motor-vehicles allowed are doctors' cars and milk-distributing lorries.

It is understood from a reliable source that the hostages taken in connection with the Duisburg explosion are subjected to the severest prison discipline. They are not permitted to receive any visits whatsoever, and are only allowed ordinary prison food.

The French have suspended the Duesseldorfer Nachrichten for three months.

The martial law in Duisburg has been extended to include Ruhrort, Mulheim, Oberhausen and Hayborn, which are entirely cut off.

BIG U. S. MAIL ON PRESIDENT MADISON TODAY

Lincoln Brought Small Lot—Next Mail To States Sunday

The next mail for the United States will be dispatched on the President Wilson, Sunday. The liner is due at Woosung from Hongkong at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and sailing for San Francisco via Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu at four in the afternoon. The tender with incoming passengers is expected at the Customs Jetty about 11 a.m. Sunday, and the outgoing tender with passengers and mail will leave at 12.30 p.m.

A heavy mail from the United States will arrive on the President Madison today. The vessel has landed 1,686 bags of mail, 3,000 tons of cargo and passengers for Shanghai, and will dock at the China Merchants Central Wharf this morning. It is scheduled to sail for Hongkong and Manila at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mail from Europe arrived on the P. and O. steamer Khiva yesterday morning, and following, the next consignment will arrive on the French Mail boat Angkor which is expected here tomorrow. The Khiva docked at the Shanghai and Hongkew Wharf.

Three European liners are leaving Shanghai this week-end. They are the Chili, for Marseilles today, the Malwa, for London tomorrow and the Katori Maru, also for London the same day. The tender conveying passengers for the Chili will leave the French Mail Jetty at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and mail is to close at 1 p.m.

The outgoing tender with passengers and hand baggage for the Malwa will leave the Customs Jetty at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and heavy baggage should be delivered to the lighter alongside the Customs jetty between 2 and 3 p.m. today. Ordinary mail to go on this boat will close at 1 p.m. tomorrow, registered at noon, and parcels should be posted before 2 p.m. today.

The Kashmir, another P. and O. boat, is expected to leave Singapore for Hongkong and Shanghai next Sunday, and the Goettinger of the Norddeutscher Lloyd, will arrive in Shanghai tomorrow. The latter left Hongkong on Wednesday.

The President Lincoln which arrived from San Francisco via ports Wednesday evening and docked at the China Merchants Central Wharf, will sail for Hongkong and Manila at daylight this morning.

Bankoff-Cannon

In view of the great success achieved in Shanghai by the famous dancing duo, Bankoff and Cannon, the management of the St. George's Cafe, where they are now appearing, made a diligent effort to induce them to prolong their stay here for at least another week. Accordingly Mr. Bankoff cabled to Hongkong, where he is scheduled to appear after he leaves here, asking for a postponement.

Yesterday he received an answer, advising that any postponement was out of the question, as advertisements had been put out at big expense, and that other arrangements precluded the possibility of a delay.

It is with a deep sense of regret, accordingly, that the management of the St. George's cafe is compelled to announce that this is the last week that Bankoff and Canpon will appear in Shanghai. All those who have not seen them, therefore, should make arrangements with the St. George management immediately for a reservation.

Mr. Bankoff and his capable dancing partner, Miss Cannon, will present that greatest of all their dances, "The Dancing Master," before leaving the city, and as a special attraction Mr. Bankoff has promised to present a dancing creation of his own, which he calls "Love's Farewell," before he leaves the city.

This piece, by the way, is what induced Mr. Cochran to contract with Mr. Bankoff to present his new '24 version of the Greenwich Village Follies in London next September.

Britain Free Of All Foreign Debts Except American

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—In the House of Commons tonight, speaking on the third reading of the Budget, Sir William Joynson-Hicks stated that £449,000,000 had been paid off the debt since 1920. We were now rid of all foreign debts, except the American debt.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin declared that the Government's economic policy consisted in aiming at the stabilization of prices. He expressed the opinion that the time had not yet come to restore the gold standard.

The Budget passed the third reading by 249 votes to 145.

American Navy Officer Hurt In Fall At Carlton

Lieutenant-Commander L. A. Odlin of the U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, was injured on Wednesday night when he fell from the balcony of the Carlton and landed on the sidewalk directly in front of the entrance.

The Naval officer had been chatting with friends inside when he complained of the heat and said he was going out on the balcony for a smoke to cool off. He was seen seated on the railing running around the balcony—about 15 feet from the ground—and then suddenly lost his balance and toppled to the sidewalk.

He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the General Hospital where it was learned he had suffered no serious injuries. It will, however, be necessary for him to remain in the hospital a few days.

League Finances Defended By Cecil

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, July 4.—Opposing a resolution, moved by M. Hanotaux, that further reductions should be effected in the expenditure of the League of Nations, Lord Robert Cecil declared that the League finances were more strictly controlled than the finances of any country in the world.

Expenditure had already been reduced by twelve percent, and further decreases would impair the great value of its work. M. Hanotaux in a friendly spirit withdrew the resolution and suggested that the Secretary-General should bear in mind the necessity for economy.

Yokohama Seeks To Revive Tax Issue

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 5.—The long controversy, in regard to taxation, between the Municipality of Yokohama and foreign perpetual leaseholders, which was thought to have been finally settled by the Hague Arbitration Court's decision in 1905, might be revived if a representation adopted today by the Assembly for presentation to the Mayor is accepted.

The representation expresses the hope that the local Municipality will proceed to distrain foreign residents who have up to the present not paid taxes, the arrears of which in 20 years have reached over 3,000,000 yen. It states that the deficit in local finances prevents the carrying out of various enterprizes in the interests of citizens as well as foreign residents.

The Mayor has announced that he will give his final decision after fully considering the legal relationships between the residents, the Municipality and the Government.

The Gazette, in an editorial article, explains the move as an effort of the new Assembly, "a new generation which knew not Joseph," to make political capital from a dead issue, only to be quieted and reassured by the Central Government, which long ago accepted the 1905 decision.

Judgment In Carberry Case Given Today

Judge Charles S. Lobingier will hand down his judgment in the Carberry bigamy case when the United States Court convenes at 9.30 o'clock this morning. Refugees From Eldorado Arrive In Shanghai

Rumors are still prevalent of a gigantic arms deal in Gensan instigated by some Chinese who could make good use of both arms and ammunition in civil war.

The Japan Chronicle, a few days ago, reported that the refugees were coming to China for employment by a large American concern, and some of the refugees yesterday verified that report. Details of the reported engagement of the 700 men aboard are meager, and conflicting, however. One report is that the American concern owns a large tract of land near Hangchow which the Russians are to farm. THE CHINA PRESS has been unable to run down the report and has not learned of any bona fide American concern that has made any such proposition.

Some of the leaders of the Russians, fearful of the bad results that might come from unexpected knowledge of dissensions among the Russians themselves, are also said to be preparing to give out a denial that the factions headed by Generals Glieboff and Liebiedoff fought a battle in Gensan two weeks or so ago in which 114 men, including General Glieboff, were killed, as exclusively reported in this newspaper some time ago. The Russian leaders are fearful that publicity given the news of the battle will hinder them in gaining permission to land.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 5.—In declaring that the Russian refugees now at Ningpo will not be allowed to enter the Philippines should they follow the example set by those on Admiral Stark's fleet, Governor-General Wood did so because of the inability of the people of the Philippines to care for such a large number of refugees.

Governor General Wood feels that the islands did their share of Russian refugees relief work when they took care of the men, women and children on Admiral Stark's fleet and he does not desire to set a precedent by admitting any more.

Many of the male Russians were employed as hemp strippers in Davao and when the decision was reached to send 500 of the refugees to the United States on the United States Army transport Merritt many of them deserted the hemp fields and made their way to the nearest port in hopes of being able to take advantage of the generosity of the American government and get a free trip to the United States.

Employment of the Russians as hemp strippers was very unsatisfactory. Not only did the Russians do less work than the Filipinos engaged in doing the same work, but they were extremely unreliable. In one instance they deserted the job when a cargo of hemp was half unloaded, causing considerable delay in recruiting a gang of Filipinos to take their places and finish the job. As a result of their general unreliability Filipino planters have no desire to do any further humanitarian work in furnishing the Russians employment.

REFUGEES IN PEKING

Peking, July 2.—A number of Russian refugees arrived here yesterday from Tientsin and were taken to the Russian Church in the north of the City.

Russo-Japanese Parleys In Hitch

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 5.—The differences between the Russian and Japanese points of view in regard to the Nikolaievsk indemnity and the evacuation of Saghalien, questions which it is understood Mr. Kawakami insists shall be considered together, render a successful outcome of the present conversations extremely doubtful, according to the views held in reliable quarters.

It is stated that up to the present the parties are no nearer an agreement than they were at Changchun.

Though no agreement may be reached in the questions so far taken up the conversations are expected to continue for some weeks and other topics will be explored.

DR. HANS DRIESCH NOW IN SHANGHAI, SAILING SUNDAY

Noted German Philosopher Concludes China Lecture Courses

Professor Hans Driesch, noted German savant who recently concluded several courses of lectures in Peking, has returned to Shanghai and will sail Sunday on the steamer President Wilson.

Professor Driesch's lectures in the capital were very much appreciated and largely attended. His last work there was the settlement by the philosopher, together with Dr. Carson Chang and Dr. Wilhelm, of the different new philosophical terms in Chinese and these will be published shortly in a philosophical dictionary.

Previous to their leaving Peking, on May 15, Dr. and Mrs. Driesch were tendered a farewell dinner by the Lecture Association in the Navy Officers' Club. The dinner was presided over by Mr. Liang Chi-chao, president of the Association, famous Chinese writer and former Minister of Finance. Among others present were Dr. W. W. Yen, Dr. Wellington Koo, Dr. Carson Chang, the German Minister, Dr. Boye, Dr. Wilhelm, noted Sinologue, Baron Stael, Sanskrit expert, General and Mrs. Munthe and many others of prominence in Peking intellectual circles.

After leaving Peking Dr. and Mrs. Driesch visited with Dr. Carson Chang and Dr. Chu in Kaifeng and Tsinanfu, in each of which places Dr. Driesch gave two lectures, while Mrs. Driesch spoke to the girl students. Dr. and Mrs. Driesch were received in each city they visited by the high local Chinese officials and commissioners of education. From Tsinanfu they went to Chufu to visit the grave and temple of Confucius.

Dr. Driesch has been asked to give lecture courses in Tokio and at the University of California, Yale and Columbia University.

Man Murdered In Sungkiang

(China Press Correspondence)

Sungkiang, July 2.—Our quiet little town does not have many things to excite it, but last Saturday night there was something out of the ordinary. About ten o'clock a man was found on one of the streets stabbed and in a dying condition. Some mystery seems to be connected with the affair or at least one can get no very definite account. The murdered man seems to have belonged to an evil band down here and they are the ones who did the deed or at least some of their number. It is suspected that the man was in a position to do some of the number damage and so they decided to get rid of him. He was found with a kind of iron instrument in his hand that is used by roughs.

The Health Society about which I wrote a few weeks ago has now become an accomplished fact and steps are being taken to try and effect some reforms in this old city.

Chinese Boy Drowns While Swimming At 'Y'

Kan Tsok-sz, a member of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. was drowned while swimming in the pool there Wednesday. With a number of companions Kan had been splashing around in the pool for some time, and had dived several times from the spring board. After one of these dives a companion, who had been watching him, noticed that he did not come to the surface.

He immediately dived in after his friend, and after some little time succeeded in bringing him to the surface, and with the assistance of the other swimmers lifted him from the pool. Artificial respiration was tried and a physician summoned, but all efforts to revive the lad were unavailing, although the physician and others worked over him for more than an hour.

Rumor Agents In Peking Very Busy

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 5.—Peking is at present full of rumors, mostly circulated by various parties for propaganda purposes.

The rumor is again current that General Tsao Kun will shortly come to Peking to take up the Acting Premiership, taking charge of the Presidential affairs pending the election.

The Chihli Party deny this, stating that General Tsao desires the election to be postponed till it can be carried out with legality. They also state that General Tsao wishes the vacancies in the Cabinet to be filled and Dr. Wellington Koo to become Foreign Minister.

General Tsao has telegraphed to Dr. Sun Yat-sen expressing appreciation of his disbandment policy and suggesting a conference between the North and the South.

General Tsao's opponents state that Dr. Sun is likely to prefer to strengthen the triple alliance between himself and the Anfu Party and Mukden.

Prominent supporters of General Tsao are reported to be striving to collect $10,000,000 for his election expenses.

Chinese Chamber Fetes Powell

a sincere friend of China you had advanced counsel and criticism of an encouraging nature in the interest of our national and social welfare.

BANDIT VICTIM

"Next we found you one of the victims of the Lincheng outrage. Though you were in a position in which your safety was questioned, you managed to render valuable assistance in the parleys which brought about a peaceful solution of a difficult problem because in you even the bandits, reckless as they had been, had reposed unusual confidence. For the good work you have done in this direction, be assured of the general appreciation of the Chinese people.

"This little party which we got up in your honor will serve a memorable purpose: it will mark, though in a very inadequate manner, our sentiments of appreciation and admiration for the excellent work you have done in China. What has been said confirms our opinion that the spirit of co-operation is the one vital factor for the solution of all international problems. At present, the talk of international intervention as an experiment worth trying is in the air, and Chinese merchants are criticised for their inability to cope with the national situation. We do not blame those by whom such things are said because such views represent a very imperfect knowledge of the under-currents of our national events, and they imply a deliberate disregard of the inevitable confusion and unrest which must accompany all great changes in forms of government as the history of foreign countries enjoying the advantages of representative government has abundantly and unmistakably testified.

"However, we do believe that in our struggles to establish a thoroughly republicanised regime, we shall no doubt receive the moral support and cordial sympathy of the American people. Now, more than ever, your editorial responsibilities impose upon you an extra-heavy burden, the burden of helping the American people to envisage the Chinese situation in a true and correct perspective."

MERE INCIDENT

After giving a vivid description of the experiences that he underwent during the five weeks in captivity, Mr. Powell asserted that the Lincheng outrage was merely an incident of the general political situation, which had become most serious.

"But if this formed the bottom point of the chaotic history of the Republic, we are glad to have participated in the last scene of the tragedy. However, as one of the elderly captives pointed out, our hope for better conditions is futile.

"One element that is hurting China greatly is the failure to adopt a national constitution. It has been 12 years since China has adopted the democratic form of government. Parliament has sat at various intervals. It sat for the last year, but has accomplished no results in the matter of the Constitution. If nothing is done, I am sure conditions will be worse than ever. China has had no real revolution. The change made in 1911 was merely in the form of the government: you had very little change even in the personnel. If you do have a revolution and some low element of your social life come into power like the Bolsheviki in Russia, you are the big losers. Today, all the educated men and the property-holders are driven out of Russia. You see them as refugees in China, America, Europe and everywhere except in Russia. Under similar conditions, bandits will rule China.

"Another solution of the serious condition will be foreign intervention. In Russia, this failed. But out here, the foreigners have better hold on you. If the threatened intervention is actually carried, the Japanese will take the lead. Japan can land 100,000 troops here before the United States lands 5,000 and you are the losers. Foreign intervention would probably end in another world war, in which case, you are again the losers. You must do something. It is not for me to suggest, but you must work out the problem yourselves."

WHAT U. S. DID

Here Mr. Powell told of the experience of America in the adoption of the Constitution by the original 13 states. With the exception of a few men like George Washington, there were no men of great brilliance among the makers of the historical document, Mr. Powell said. The states differed in interests and conflicted on various matters. But they made sacrifices and gained the strength of the union, which had been so tersely put in the sayings "United we stand: divided we fall."

The problem for the Chinese leaders today, Mr. Powell suggested, was to get the army of little Napoleons together and let them agree on some working basis. Chang Tso-lin, Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu, Chi Shih-yuan, Sun Yat-sen and Chen Chung-ming are all after the spoils, but China's resources are sufficient to satisfy them. Let them get together and find out what they want, said Mr. Powell. Low as the plan may be, the system of dividing up the spoils as adopted by Japan after the Feudal system might well be accepted by the Chinese for the immediate solution of the knotty problem.

"The Lincheng outrage has caused a great deal of embarrassment among the friends of the Chinese," continued Mr. Powell. "Americans have been most friendly to China. The public sentiment has been to give China a chance to work out her own salvation and the Washington Conference was the crystallization of that opinion. More than any other conference, this gathering re-established the administrative and territorial integrity of China because public opinion was on your side. But the Lincheng outrage puts us in a bad position. Since being freed from captivity, I have received numerous letters from America. Many of them asked me this question: 'you have fought for China for [illegible] years. What did you get?'"

U. S. LESS SYMPATHETIC

As an instance of the fact that public opinion in America is less favorable to China than before, Mr. Powell pointed out the meagre reports being published in the American press with reference to the recent Changsha outrage, in which Japanese landing forces shot to death several innocent civilians in the Yangtze Port as a retaliation against the boycott. The American press would have taken this opportunity of condemning the Japanese unanimously had it not been for the bandit outrage. But as it is, the papers had but two or three lines on the shooting.

Public opinion goes long ways in the States, Mr. Powell concluded. It took America almost three years before she decided to join the Allies. Opinion in the United States on China had already changed somewhat and it would take a long time before America would be willing to help China unless China does something for herself at once.

Mr. Yih Huai-chun, a director of the chamber, expressed his personal admiration for Mr. Powell, whom he had never met before and classified him as a true internationalist, possessed of a patriotism not limited by nationalism.

Mr. Francis Zia interpreted both for Mr. Fong and Mr. Powell.

The chamber, it is understood, is publishing Mr. Powell's speech in booklets to be distributed among the business men of the country.

These "Beavers" Would Be Popular In London

LONDON'S favorite pastime now is to play "beaver," the idea being for two contestants to cry "Beaver!" every time they see a man with whiskers. The player who sees the most whiskered men in a day wins the wager. These two San Francisco men, who claim the world's "whiskers' championship," are original Forty-niners, and between them they have more than 28 feet of whiskers. The man at the left has a beard that measures 11 feet 3 inches, while that of the man at the right is 17 feet long.

TOKIO COLLEGE PRESIDENT QUITS; WAS INTIMIDATED

School Divided By Rivalry Of Factions For Office

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 29.—The intimidation of the president into signing his own resignation is the climax of the trouble that has been going on for some time past in the Tokio Daigaku, one of the private universities in this city.

The trouble is said to have arisen through the rivalry between two members of the school staff for the presidency of the school, when a vacancy occurred some six years ago. The competition for the post naturally divided the school faculty, and the defeated group has waited its opportunity of winning some advantage over its successful rivals.

This opportunity recently presented itself when the president summarily discharged six members of the school staff, who did not appear to fall into line with his policy. These six teachers are exceedingly popular with the students of the institution, and their dismissal created considerable feeling against the president, with the result that at a mass meeting the students criticised the president's action in no measured terms.

As the president disregarded these protests, and suspended some of the students who had been the organisers of the movement against himself, matters grew rapidly worse, until the students at a subsequent meeting drew up a series of resolutions for submission to the president.

When a deputation waited on him to present the resolutions, he refused to see them. The students thereupon decided to use force. The president was taken from his office into the school auditorium and there compelled to sign his own resignation.

The students decided to refer the whole matter to the Department of Education for settlement.

The Department resolved to withdraw its sanction of the appointment of the president, stating that in its opinion he is not the proper person for the post, on the ground that he disregarded the advice of the university council and tried to manage the affairs of the college in an arbitrary manner.

WEEKLY REVIEW ISSUES SPECIAL FINANCE NUMBER

A special issue of some 110 pages devoted entirely to the present financial and banking situation in China has just been published by the China Weekly Review. The edition is illustrated and contains on the front cover a reproduction in colors of a "Ming Note" for 1,000 cash issued by the first Ming emperor in 1368. Among the subjects covered in this issue are, "Is China on the Verge of Bankruptcy?" "Picking the Debts to be Paid," "Modern Chinese Banks as Pioneers in Financial Reform," "Chinese Finances Since the Washington Conference," "The Financial Reconstruction of China," "The Funding of China's Debts," "China and the Silver Situation," "Trading with Foreign Money in China," "Copper Currency and its Debasement," and so on.

Among the contributors to this editorion are, Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American Minister to Peking; Frederick W. Stevens, representative of the American banks in the Consortium; G. Padoux, adviser in Finance to the Chinese Government; Dr. C. T. Wang, Dr. Sao Ke Alfred Sze, R. Buchan of the Asia Banking Corporation, Rodney Gilbert and a number of other experts on various phases of China's finance, currency, exchange and silver. The edition was edited by Mr. Roy C. Hennett, former editor of the Manila Bulletin but for the last year a member of the staff of the Weekly Review.

JAPAN IS NOT IN FAVOR OF NAVAL DEMONSTRATION

Says It Would Not Impress Disorderly Chinese Elements

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The Diplomatic Correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that Japan does not view favorably the British proposal for a naval demonstration by the Powers in connection with the measures for the better protection of foreigners in China. It is argued that this would fail to impress the elements of disorder in the interior of China. Japanese opinion is apparently not quite clear as to how many and which Powers would cooperate in such a demonstration.

Washington's views on the proposal are still awaited in Britain.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—Fears with regard to the situation in China were voiced in a number of questions in the House of Commons today. Mr. Ronald McNeill, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told Sir Edwin Stockton that the Government had not received any representations from missionary bodies in China concerning the serious effect of the unrest on their work. He said that the British Minister would naturally do his utmost to secure the protection of missionaries like other British subjects.

In reply to further questions by Sir Edwin Stockton, Mr. McNeill said that the Government was fully alive to the apprehensions caused by the present situation in China. Representations had been received from a large number of important commercial bodies, emphasising the serious menace to British interests resulting from the disorders in China.

Another Member said that he had heard that 24 Europeans were at present in captivity with the bandits in China. Mr. McNeill said that, as far as he was aware, no British subjects were at present imprisoned.

FRIENDS OF BOTH DR. SUN AND CHEN SEEK MEDIATION

Realise That Neither Can Be Completely Eliminated

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 2.—Reports from Canton indicate that both Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Chen Chiung-ming are finding it impossible to eliminate the other completely.

Two parties are trying to bring about mediation, namely the party which stands for the policy of "Canton for the Cantonese" and the old Chiaotung Clique led by Liang Shih-yi.

Before a settlement can be effected there are at least three difficult questions which have to be settled.

(1) How to dispose of General Chen Chiung-ming's troops.

(2) The disposal of the Yunnan troops whom Dr. Sun does not want to send back to Yunnan.

(3) How to satisfy Mr. Hu Han-min and General Hsu Chung-chih who are opposed to these negotiations.

It is thought that in spite of these difficulties some arrangement may be reached as Dr. Sun wants his own province settled as a preliminary to negotiating with the anti-Chihli parties in the North.

Kapala Islands Estates

At a meeting of the Kapala Islands Estates, Ltd., in voluntary liquidation, yesterday, Mr. E. A. Price, the liquidator, said:

"Gentlemen: In accordance with Section 187 (2) of the Companies' Ordinance Hongkong, it is necessary for me to call a meeting of shareholders to lay before them an account of my acts and dealings and the conduct of the winding up during the preceding year.

"I regret to say that I have very little to tell you. The company's holding of shares in the Naamlooze Vennootschap Exploitatie Maatschappij Napala Djeri, as you know, was mortgaged to the sole debenture holder, Mr. E. S. Kadoorie, who has now taken possession of these shares which entitle him to full possession of the estate. I have no idea as to Mr. Kadoorie's intentions regarding the future of the estate, but I can safely say that there is no prospect of any return to shareholders."

Armed Robber Gets Five Years

A Chinese convicted of taking part in an armed robbery at 275 Myburgh Road on April 3 was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by the Mixed Court yesterday and was ordered to be expelled from the Settlement at the expiration of his term.

Chief Detective Inspector Cruickshank, who prosecuted the case, said that though the pistols used in the robbery were only imitation weapons he would press for a severe sentence. The accused admitted participation in the robbery but stated that he did not actually enter the house.

Depression In Cotton Trade Due To Inefficiency

MUST CUT OVERHEAD

The only way to secure this result is increased production or reduced overhead expenses. In many of the mills there can be no question but that competent supervision would not only secure increased production but by reducing waste would actually effect considerable economies in overhead.

The employment of foreign managers or engineers suggested is merely a temporary measure intended to bridge over the term that must elapse before there are a sufficient number of qualified, competent technically trained Chinese capable of taking over full control. The industry in China can only reach its full development under the management of competent Chinese, who on account of their ability to give their orders direct and not through interpreters and also on account of the greater numbers who could be employed economically would be able to exert far more influence on the successful development of the industry.

In addition to the losses in the Chinese mills caused through mismanagement and inefficiency there is a very heavy invisible loss due to various malpractices on the part of the workpeople, which would to a very large extent be avoided through the institution of more thorough systems of observation and check.

WILL NOT TAKE ADVICE

Unfortunately the Chinese are not prone to take advice and will not adopt measures which the experience of trained men has shown to be necessary to the efficient control of mills. Were they in the meantime to employ the assistance of trained foreign experts either permanently on their staff or as supervisors and advisers visiting the mill at stated intervals, there is but little doubt that an improvement would soon become apparent provided the advice given was followed. But if they continue in their present haphazard rule of thumb practice without competent supervision or control and with a complete absence of system, it is to be feared that the financiers, whose support is so necessary to the future development, will fight shy of cotton mills and that the industry which properly managed should develop enormously and be an asset to China, will languish or come under the direction of the Japanese and all because the Chinese are unwilling to realise that modern industry requires management by men who have received a thorough specialised technical training in cotton spinning.

It must not be thought that every mill in China is mis-managed and inefficient, for such is not the case. Some mills under Chinese management are well and economically run but others reveal to the most casual observer a total lack of the most elementary knowledge of mill management and an absence of supervision which is fatal to successful results. More system, more training and more attention to detail and more supervision would make all the difference between success and failure.

The restoration of order would, of course, improve the standing of the industry and conditions might conceivably arise which would enable all the mills to work at a profit but until it is realised that modern industry demands efficiency in man-power as well as in machinery and until this efficiency is attained and maintained, the spinning industry will be subject to passing change and stability cannot be assured.

Japan Has School For S. Sea Traders

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 29.—The training of intending settlers in the South Sea islands, in order to familiarise them with conditions of life and possible trade developments in that locality, is the object of a special school, or institute, to be opened about the end of September at the instance of the South Seas Association, which has just been founded by a number of business men and others interested in Japan's trade with the islands.

The proposed institute will accommodate one hundred students to begin with. Already eighty young men have signified their intention to apply for entrance.

Attached to the institute will be a small commercial museum where specimens of the products of the islands will be housed.

NO MAN IS SMART ENOUGH TO TELL HIS OWN SON ANYTHING WHEN HE LEAVES COLLEGE

Dempsey Beats Gibbons, But Not By Knockout As Followers Expected

Champion Gets Decision On Points, Largely Because Of Furious Attack In The Last Round; Crowd Disappointing

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Shelby, Montana, July 4.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, won his fight with Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul challenger, today, but not by the "kayo" route, as his thousands of supports expected. The fight went fifteen rounds and Dempsey got the verdict on points.

Gibbons surprised his friends and probably himself by actually outboxing the champion. He had several good opportunities, especially in the early rounds, but seemed to lack the punch, although at one stage of the battle he rocked the champion clear to his heels, driving him, with a succession of whirlwind blows, into the ropes.

Dempsey seemed to have lost his old time instinct for timing to a certain extent, many of his blows falling short or failing the mark entirely. This may have been due to the speed of his opponent, which was astonishing, even to the Dempsey followers, who thought they had a good line on the challenger's capabilities.

Dempsey tried his old rushing tactics in the early rounds, but Gibbons was too shifty for him, not giving him a real chance. Seeing the futility of such strategy, and fearing to weaken himself, the champion began to conserve his strength. He was strong at the finish and in the last round he tried desperately for a knockout. Gibbons stayed him off, however, through frequent clinching and by his magnificent footwork.

Tommy also finished strong—so strong that the fourteenth round, the next to the last, went to his credit by a slight margin. This plainly worried the champion, who, fearing the catastrophe of a draw, put everything he had into his attack in the final round. It was this hurricane of blows in the final session, any one of which would have put the challenger to sleep if it had connected, that gave Jack the decision. Gibbons rose to great heights defensively in this stanza, his blocking and footwork being magnificent. Experts at the ringside were astonished to see him emerge unhurt from the storm.

The attendance was a tremendous disappointment, as only ten thousand were present. This included large numbers of local residents and camp followers who were allowed to enter the arena at the last minute, for any amount they would give. Some got in for as little as one dollar.

(Reuter's Service)

Shelby, Montana, July 4.—Jack Dempsey beat Tom Gibbons on points in a fifteen-round contest for the World's Heavyweight Boxing Championship.

The weather was very hot. Six thousand people were present.

Contrary to general expectation Gibbons made a good fight against the champion. He outboxed Dempsey in several rounds and fought with the utmost gameness throughout.

Gibbons' weight was 12 stone 7½ lbs. and Dempsey's 13 stone 6 lbs.

Dempsey relied chiefly on body-blows and left and right hooks to the jaw and head. He had the better of the early rounds, although in the second Gibbons with a left hook opened a cut over his left eye. Gibbons was elusive and smart in dodging and ducking. At times the champion attacked viciously, but Gibbons covered up and clinched to avoid punishment. Dempsey's punishing body blows weakened Gibbons, but Dempsey appears to have lost some of his old-time steam, probably through his long lay-off.

The fight was the biggest financial failure in the history of the ring.

Johnston And Hunter To Meet In Final Of Tennis Title Play At Wimbledon

(Reuter's Service)

Wimbledon, July 4.—The weather was glorious and hot and an enormous crowd, including the Duke and Duchess of York, watched the tennis at the All England Club today.

In the semi-final of the Men's Singles, Hunter beat Gordon Lowe, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4. Lowe was very slow in the first set and Hunter profited by it and drove to the baseline corners. In many instances Lowe did not attempt to reach the ball. In the second set Lowe adopted a policy of lobbing Hunter back to the baseline. Lowe led by 5-3 but Hunter played up finely, winning against Lowe's service for a lead of 6-5. In the last set Hunter made fine drives to the backhand corner.

In the other semi-final Johnston beat Norton, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. Norton put up a splendid fight especially in the first set, in which he tried to beat the American at his own game of hurricane driving, but he could not maintain the terrific pace and Johnston took command in the second set which he won easily. Johnston led by 5-2 in the third set and then Norton rallied and won the next two games. Norton carried the next game to deuce and went down fighting.

In the semi-final of the Ladies' Singles Mlle Lenglen beat Mrs. Beamish, 6-0, 6-0. Mlle Lenglen played with her usual uncanny accuracy. She seemed to mesmerise Mrs. Beamish who was far below her real form, hit wildly and netted the ball frequently. The champion only netted the ball three times.

In the third round of the Ladies' Doubles Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Miss McKane beat Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Bancroft, 6-3, 6-0.

In the fourth round of the Men's Doubles Lacoste and Borotra beat Hunter and Richards. 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4. Count De Gomar and Flaquer beat Ingram and Masterman, 10-8, 6-3, 6-3.

In the fourth round of the Mixed Doubles Lycett and Miss Ryan beat Wheatley and Miss Colyer. 10-8, 6-4. Washer and Mlle Lenglen beat Brumron and Mme Macready, 6-3, 6-2.

American Wins Grand National Steeplechase

ROWING CLUB'S SWIMMERS HOLD INITIAL CONTESTS

'One Length,' Diving, Relay Race And Water Polo On Card

The Shanghai Rowing Club has now organised an Amateur Swimming Association among the members of the club. This body meets every Wednesday night when they hold a miniature gala. The idea of this is to keep the team fit for battles against other swimming aggregations and so to interest members they are awarding a prize at the end of the season to the person having the greatest number of points. Those who place in any event receive a certain number of points to their credit and besides bettering their swimming they have a chance to win the trophy.

Secretary E. T. Nash and a few other swimming enthusiasts are striving to get a swimming league started here for it can be easily done if the people will only take a little interest in it. There will probably be some interport swimming this year with Hongkong and other ports but that is a good ways off.

The Swimming Association held its first mid-week affair Wednesday from 9:20 p.m. till about 11:00 o'clock and in spite of the various other activities which were on a very satisfactory attendance was there.

Here are the results:

ONE LENGTH HANDICAP

Heat 1.—B. McCarthy (8 sec.) 1; L. G. Day (5 sec.) 2; R. L. Evans (4 sec.) 3; R. A. Berthet (2 sec.) 0; C. N. Brown (scr.) 0. Time—22 sec.

Heat 2.—G. A. Johnson (4 sec.) 1; J. E. Henry (2 sec.) 2; J. B. Brown (scr.) 3; C. Mair (10 sec.) 0; W. Palmer (8 sec.) 0. Time—21 1-5 secs.

RUNNING HEADERS FROM SPRINGBOARD

J. B. Brown 1; L. Goldman 2, C. N. Brown 3.

Also competed—R. A. Berthet, L. R. Cropley, J. E. Henry, F. H. Johnson, C. Mair, B. McCarthy, W. Palmer and B. Lawrie-Smith.

RELAY RACE

Three sides, the teams being the same fives that composed the heats above, one length. Practically a dead heat resulted between Goldman's and C. N. Brown's sides, though Goldman was given the verdict.

WATER POLO

Whites—B. McCarthy; R. W. MacCabe and B. Lawrie-Smith: E. T. Nash; J. E. Henry, L. Goldman and L. G. Day.

Blues—L. R. Cropley; R. A. Berthet and J. Buys; R. L. Evans; J. B. Brown, F. H. Johnson and C. N. Brown.

Whites won by 4 goals (Henry 3, Goldman 1) to 3 (J. B. Brown 1, J. Buys 1, C. N. Brown 1).

BASEBALL TOMORROW!

The Gallopers will try once more tomorrow to subdue that baseball aggregation from the Flagship Huron; also on Sunday, Herby having arranged for a brace of week end games.

The proceeds of this game will be donated to the American Association for Civilian Relief, and all who attend will be asked to donate one dollar to this good cause.

These ought to be bang-up games, as the Gallopers come a little nearer to copping every time they clash with the Skymanski crowd. This time they ought to win. But win or lose they will be games well worth watching and a big crowd is hoped for.

In anticipation of the game Herby makes a special request that all candidates report for practice tonight.

King George Extols Huge Rockefeller Gift To London

London, by mail.—The great additions to University College and University College Hospital made possible through the munificence of John D. Rockefeller were inaugurated with picturesque ceremony by the King and Queen. The foundation stones of the new Maternity Hospital and the Nurses' Home were formally laid and the King declared new Anatomy Building open. In his speech King George made special reference to the "magnificent generosity" of the gift of £1,200,000 to University College in a single gift from a single benefactor and spoke of the significance it gained in coming from an American citizen to the people of Great Britain and the British Empire.

The Maternity Hospital and Nurses' home will face each other across the street, and advantage of this was taken to erect a marquee over that thoroughfare and to turn it into a local court. The stones to be laid stood on either side and when the stands were filled, largely with physicians in scarlet gowns and nurses in gray uniforms and spotcaps and aprons, the choir of St. Pancras Church filed in followed by the band of the grenadiers in all their glory of gold and scarlet. The scene was singularly picturesque.

The King and Queen had chairs in the midst of the assemblage, and the ceremony began with presentations. Post Wheeler, American Charge d'Affaires, wearing his Princeton academic robes, led up a number of Americans including Consul General R. P. Skinner, Captain Hussey, Naval Attache and Dr. George C. MacLean of the American University Union. Addresses to the King were read, and he replied:

"In behalf of the Queen and myself I thank you for your loyal and dutiful address. It gives us much pleasure to come here for the double purpose of laying the foundation stones of the new obstetric hospital and nurses' home of the University College Hospital and of the opening of the new anatomy building of the University College.

"We are conscious of the significance of the occasion. This is no ordinary extension of a hospital or of a college. The vast scale of the new development which we are inaugurating would be enough in itself to render it remarkable. There can be but few instances on record in which any foundation has received like this college and medical school £1,200,000 from a single benefactor in a single gift. The magnificent generosity of the Rockefeller trustees is more impressive since it is bestowed by a citizen of the United States upon a college and hospital in London, and thus upon the people of Great Britain and the empire.

"It has been said that science knows no frontiers. Indeed, the declared purpose of the Trustees is 'to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world.' That they should have selected the University of London to receive this princely endowment is not merely a well-deserved compliment and the creation of yet another proof of the sympathy and friendship which unites us with the United States, but it is also evidence and a declaration of their conviction that the progress of science and the welfare of mankind are not delimited by national or racial boundaries, and that the work here in London for the relief of human suffering and the improvement of medical education and the advancement of science is a service to the whole world.

"It is not, however, the great magnitude of the endowment which lends importance to this occasion. These buildings are designed for a new, far-reaching development in the traditional organisation of British medical education. I understood that this college and medical school were selected by Rockefeller trustees for their benefaction from among many equally distinguished institutions, partly because the situation is central and yet affords room for expansion, and partly because the close connection of the hospital and medical school provides favorable opportunities for that intercourse between medicine and the other branches of learning which is the surest defense against the evils of narrow specialism.

"I understand that the trustees were chiefly influenced by the establishment at this college of what has come to be known as 'the unit system' of medical training. The essence of the 'unit system' lies in effecting the closest possible correlation between the science and art of medicine, between research and education, and between theory and practice, and as a means to this end in placing the chief of branches of medical education under the direction of a head who is free to devote his whole time of teaching, research and hospital practice.

"This is a substantial development of the traditional development of the traditional British system which entrusts clinical teaching of medicine to men of distinction who are actively engaged as private practioners.

"No appreciation can be too great for the devotion with which eminent physicians and surgeons have given and are giving their services to the treatment of hospital patients and the training of students, but the advance of knowledge and the ever rising standard of medical education has necessitated a reorganisation which will give an impetus to more effective training and equipment of the British practitioner, with corresponding benefits to the health, well-being and happiness of the people.

"The underlying principle is as old as ecclesiastics: 'the wisdom of the learned man cometh by opportunity of leisure, and he that hath little business shall become wise.' Its specific application to medical research is new in this country. At all events there are two features in the scheme of which the queen has learned with particular satisfaction.

"The first is the Maternity Hospital and the obstetrics unit of which it forms a part. It is unfortunately true that the present position is not wholly satisfactory and that every year many lives are lost in childbirth and many women suffer injuries to health which might be prevented if better facilities for treatment were available. Two of the chief requisites for bringing about a better state of things to insure that medical men are well and efficiently trained for their work and to provide maternity hospitals in which patients may be received.

"The Queen is also gratified that in allocating the endowment the claims of the nursing service have not been overlooked, provision having been made for the establishment of a new nurses' home.

"We are glad to find that the Medical School realises absolutely the necessity of giving their nurses not only a thorough and scientific training in their craft, but also appropriate facilities for rest and recreation without which continuous efficiency in their exacting duties is impossible.

"The privilege of accepting this munificent gift of the Rockefeller trustees imposes an obligation upon the staff to fulfill the ideals which it represents and upon the public to furnish the necessary support entailed. It is inconceivable that Englishmen should decline to welcome this generous challenge from our kinsmen across the Atlantic to friendly rivalry in medical skill and devotion. The beneficiaries cordially wish Godspeed to this great enterprise."

The Bishop of London, accompanied by his Chaplain and Epistefaction, was open, and departed began a brief service with a hymn by the choir, and then the two foundation stones were laid with a record of the college's debt to the Rockefeller fund. On the maternity hospital all passers by will read: "Built by the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation, U.S.A." The record on the nurses' home is: "Gift of the Rockefeller Foundation, U.S.A."

The King laid the first stone with a professional mason watching with an amused smile his handling of the trowel, and the Queen laid the second. Then the King announced that the anatomy building, another Rockefeller benefaction, was open, and departed with the Queen to make a thorough inspection of all the wonders of medical apparatus it contains for the enlargement of the bounds of medical science.

173 GRADUATE AT UNIVERSITY OF NANKING

Announce Large Donations Received From Americans

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, July 2.—A pouring rain interfered with the Commencement program at the University of Nanking, but not seriously. This morning there was an audience of fully one thousand in Sage Chapel at the graduation exercises. The Commencement Orator was Dr. C. T. Wang, who had made a special trip from Peking for this purpose. The subject was 'Democracy and Education,' and the address had the characteristically gripping eloquence which make Dr. Wang one of the most successful among present day public speakers. Mr. S. T. Wen, Nanking Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, who took a prominent and courageous part in the freeing of the Lincheng captives, gave the opening prayer. The Civil Governor of Kiangsu, Mr. Han Kwoh-chuin, was present and spoke briefly. Greetings to the University were presented by a representative from the military governor and by representatives of the Commissioner of Education and of other officials. A number of other distinguished guests, including the American Vice-Consul and representatives from other institutions of learning, were present on the platform or in the audience.

The total number of graduates was 173. Twenty-nine received bachelor's degrees, nineteen in arts were given to fifty-seven graduates and ten in science. Certificates from the Middle School, and fifty from the Model School. Other departments, such as the Department of Missionary Training, the Special Courses in Agriculture and Sericulture, and the Summer School hold their final exercises at other times during the year.

Announcement was made of the election of three from the senior college graduates to the University of Nanking Chapter of the Honorary Society of Phi Tau Phi. The three who received this distinction were Messrs. Chang Tsi-hwa, Li Kwei-chen, and Tung Teh-fu.

President Bowen also announced that among the gifts that had been made known during the past year were the sum of gold $21,000 from the American Silk Association for a sericulture building, already completed, the sum of gold $675,000 from American famine relief funds for work to be organised through the College of Agriculture and Forestry for the prevention of famines in China, the sum of about Mexican $50,000 from various sources to apply on a current deficit, and the sum of Mexican $1,200 raised by the undergraduates for fitting up a college athletic field.

Love Letters Of History

BY JOSEPH KAYE

John Howard Payne, the immortal author of "Home, Sweet Home," is our love-stricken hero here, and the woman who possessed his heart was Mary Wollstonecraft, the young widow of Shelley, who is remembered today for her weird story, "Frankenstein," the forerunner of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Payne, an American actor and dramatist, was engaged in hack work in London. He was thirty-four then, and his powers as an actor had waned. He had written several successful plays, but nothing to afford a regular income for his improvident nature, and he resorted to translations, librettos and such like for a living. A piece in the last division that he cooked up was "Clari, the Maid of Milan," which Sir Henry Bishop set to music. In this long forgotten and inferior work is to be found the song that has played on the heartstrings of the English-speaking world for generations past, "Home, Sweet Home." An interesting fact about this seemingly typical English tune was that Bishop adapted it from an old Italian melody.

Payne's romance with the celebrated Mary Wollstonecraft had a short life. He discovered that while he was a favored friend with the lady, her heart interest was directed towards Washington Irving. Payne, a gallant man, instead of lamenting his fate in anger, pleaded the cause of his rival. Irving, however, gave no thanks to his friend for his kindly efforts. He had suffered a disappointment in love at the hands of the beautiful Philadelphia girl, Rebeccah Gratz, whom Sir Walter Scott made the Jewish heroine of "Ivanhoe" and had not yet recovered.

After a lengthy correspondence Payne actually declared his love for Mrs. Shelley in a letter, of which the following is a part.

".....A flash, as it were, and at a time and place of which you can form no idea, gave me a thorough impression of all which I have since found confirmed, of the beauty of your heart and intellect. I then knew nothing of you but what I had heard of you as a child, excepting what had been misrepresented—so that I had the satisfaction of taking up my impression entirely unswayed. I afterwards read all you have written and read much in your praise.

"I met you afterwards and left with a determination not to trust myself to the danger of your acquaintance—with a wish, if you can understand such a wish, to pay the same homage as I would the memory of one whom I had loved, but whose form, were it to appear, would only perplex me.....

".....I did not meet you again and presumed too much on my courage, forgetting that the reluctance given to the sexes they are apt involuntarily to spurn the curb and gallop over the prescribed boundary. The error was perfectly gratuitous. I told you I knew my danger and could laugh at it. I am afraid now that the laugh is not on my side....."

Italian Premier Has Beautiful Children

Mussolini's Child[illegible]

HERE are the three beautiful children of Benito Mussolini, Fascisti Premier of Italy. They are: Vittorio, Edda and Bruno.

Arranging Flowers

One wonders if the Englishwoman could not take a leaf from the book of the Japanese, who have made the arrangement of flowers into a fine art, writes Horatia Seymour in Good Housekeeping. In Japanese two hours and a half are well expended in the arrangement of a single vase; and while no one can hope for such leisure in the hurried Western world, nor for an equal devotion to the principles of beauty, yet a little study of Japanese ideas on the subject does give us new ground on which to work. Japanese taste is exquisite, but it is founded on certain precepts and principles. Color is of less importance than form. The outline, the shape, is the main thing. They will take the triple conception of Heaven and Earth and of Man, and will apply it to the arrangement of a few sprigs in a small vase. Heaven, the tallest spring, towers above the others; Earth, the lowest sprig, bends downwards; and midway between is Man.

There is no doubt that the eye gets accustomed to what it constantly sees, and every housewife might advantageously look through her collection of glass vases and relentlessly eject those which are badly shaped, unbeautiful in design, and unpractical for the arrangement of flowers. Nearly all narrow-necked vases are ugly for flower arrangement, and for big branches or tall flowers of any description a vase with a very wide solid base is desirable to avoid a top-heavy effect. Flowers should never be crammed tightly into any vase, with the exception, perhaps, of those old-fashioned garden favorites, stocks, pinks, sweet-william, mignonette, and wallflowers which look their best arranged in bunches and nosegays, and are used more for their fragrance and charm than for the individual beauty of each flower.

VIOLETS IN A VASE

The Japanese are very fond of the use of bronze vases, and an untransparent material is supposed to make flowers last longer. In any case, dark vases are becoming to fragile blossoms, and transparent glass really requires constant renewing of the water within, which is unpleasant to the eye when discolored. A few large vases are very much better than many small ones, and great care should be taken not to overcrow the flowers. The illustration of as few as seven white sweet smelling violets, with a couple of dark leaves, shows what an infinitely better effect is thus given than by jamming a whole bunch together into the glass.

All simple spring flowers, primroses, aconites, scyllas, snowdrops, and violets are best arranged as children love to do them, with a little moss in a vase in which each flower stands out perfect in itself. Grander flowers can naturally be set out more elaborately, but however beautiful the flower, it must always be remembered that squat and short-stemmed flowers do not look well in tall vases, nor long-stemmed ones in very low vases. Nor, as a rule, does it do well to mix flowers that do not naturally grow together, and the country lover may heighten the effects of her arrangement of the loveliest flowers of the fields and hedges by always mingling with them the humble flowers by whose side they grow, and who form for them Nature's background.

Himrod Winner At Clay Pigeon Shoot

Members of the Shanghai Clay Pigeon Club celebrated the fourth of July by holding a shoot for the Overseas Cup which had been sent from America by Mr. T. E. Doremus. There was a large attendance of members, and the proceedings were further enlivened by making it a ladies' day. Not only did the ladies have the pleasure of watching the competition, but a prize competition was conducted for their benefit.

The conditions for the Overseas Cup were 10 Leggett, 10 double rises and 10 Foochow, and the trophy was won by Mr. E. H. Himrod with a gross score of 48½. The cup was presented by Mr. James Ambrose, the President. Details of shooting:—

Mr. Stanley Baldwin

(By A Parliamentarian in London Daily Mail)

Vigorous business man in a short drab jacket and with a briar pipe in his mouth; a downright, straightforward, approachable man with no airs and graces; a man with a clean-shaven face and a firm mouth; a strong, purposeful man, with a genial and kindly side to him—that is the impression which Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the new Prime Minister of Great Britain, leaves on those who have been brought into contact with him in politics.

Like Mr. Bonar Law when he was called to the leadership of the Conservative Party, Mr. Baldwin has not so far cut a great figure in political life, and though his position as Chancellor of the Exchequer and his recent visit to America to arrange for the funding of our debt to the United States have brought him into prominence of late, it is true to say that he is not yet a familiar personality to the man in the street.

Another point of resemblance between the new Premier and his predecessor is that neither of them is a great platform orator. Of the two Mr. Baldwin would probably make the wider appeal to the masses, for he has humor, though it has lain dormant for a long time; but no one who goes to hear him must expect to find himself in the presence of a political spell-binder or word-spinner.

It could never be said of Mr. Baldwin that he uses the gift of speech for the purpose of concealing his thoughts. What he has to say he says directly and in a clear, well-modulated and pleasant voice. In this respect he is a model House of Commons speaker.

He has made two big speeches in the House lately, and by common consent the second of them was even better than the first. Mr. Asquith—no mean judge—went out of his way to pay Mr. Baldwin a particularly warm compliment on the speech in which he presented the Budget; and the speech in which he answered three days' criticism of his financial proposals was acclaimed as a first-class debating achievement.

He had won his spurs earlier in the more humble office of Financial Secretary to the Treasury, where he showed himself to be a model of assiduity and a mine of information, but his two Budget speeches brought him at a bound right into the little group of "established" men on the Government front bench.

Like many another M. P.—like his own father, for example—Mr. Baldwin filled the modest role of a back-bencher in the House for many years. Though he was not a prominent man, he always commanded attention; for his position as one of the principals of the big South Wales firm of Baldwin's, Ltd., and as a director of the Great Western Railway Co. enabled him to speak with authority on business affairs which were then coming more and more within the purview of Parliament.

Apart from these business debates, he was a very keen speaker on the affairs of the Welsh Church when disestablishment was to the fore. Notwithstanding all this Mr. Baldwin was no more than "one of the crowd" for some eight years in Parliament. Then Mr. Bonar Law picked him out for promotion, selecting him for the position of his parliamentary private secretary. That was in 1916, when the Coalition came into existence. After a brief spell as a Government Whip he became the righthand man of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, after which he went to the Board of Trade as its president. He stood by Mr. Bonar Law when the split came at the Carlton Club meeting, and on the formation of the new Government took office as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

In business affairs he moves and speaks with energy and quick decision. His keen eyes search the face of the man to whom he is speaking; and eyes and mouth seem to combine to produce a shrewd, quizzical expression which is very attractive.

In the few weeks in which he has been acting as deputy for Mr. Bonar Law in the leadership of the Commons Mr. Baldwin has had an opportunity of showing that he has very considerable firmness. He has learnt to snap out a "No" to any pushful and overpressing M. P. in a manner which at once settles the over-impetuous one. It is a valuable asset in a Minister.

Mr. Baldwin is a man who knows his own mind, and he has already stated very clearly and firmly the conditions on which he is willing to engage the co-operation of Lord Curzon as Foreign Secretary.

Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai

NOTICE

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1923

8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each (issued at Tls. 97 each)

Rate of interest 6% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, issued at Tls. 97 each according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on the 14th May 1923.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:

1°.—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°.—The Debentures will be issued at Tls. 97 each.

3°.—The Debentures will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100 each) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st December 1933 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

4°.—The Debentures will bear interest at 6% per annum, payable on the 31st day of May and 30th day of November in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

5°.—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1923.

6°.—Applications for Debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°.—Applications for Debentures under 97 will not be recognised by the Council.

8°.—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. Legendre, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 31st May 1923.

By order,

P. LEGENDRE
Secretary.

Wifes Sues To Make Husband Support Family

At the British Supreme Court yesterday, before Assistant Judge Peter Grain, the case of Mrs. J. Doylend v. P. J. Doylend was again heard.

This was a claim for money due for maintenance of the wife and three children.

Defendant said he was working for his room and board at Frederick's Hotel, and occasionally had a few dollars given to him. The trouble all arose over the "mix-up" with his wife and the fact that it got into the papers so that he could not get work.

The Judge: It seems to me you have mixed your wife up.

Mrs. Doylend was called and admitted that she did not know what the husband earned. For one year and nine months she and the children had not received any money from him. Up to February 1922 he was in charge of the Continental Bar, and before that was employed by the Waterworks Company.

Defendant said he resigned from the Police in 1917, and had 16 years' service. He lost all his superannuation money after he had converted it into roubles. He had a good character, but had failed to get a job at the Waterworks and the P. W. D. He was 44 years of age. At the present moment there were a lot of people in Shanghai who were out of a job.

The Judge (addressing the plaintiff) remarked that he could do nothing for her at present.

Defendant: She is very vindictive and nasty-tempered.

The Judge: You do not seem to have treated her very well. You have not given her any money.

The wife urged that the defendant should take charge of the children, and Judge Peter Grain decided to adjourn the case for a fortnight so that the defendant should see what could be done to educate the children.

EDUCATORS AID FILM MAKING FOR SCHOOL USE

Chicago, July 4.—Motion pictures, with text scenarios written by some of the most learned scholars of this age, are now carrying lessons in history, nature, health, sanitation, geography and citizenship to thousands of school children. The subjects are written, directed and filmed by the Society for Visual Education, and distributed to more than 10,000 schools and other institutions in the United States.

The society, founded and tutored by some of the most prominent educators and scientists in the country, today has an assortment of films that run into the hundreds, each devoted to a special fundamental school subject.

"We have been immeasurably successful in the ideal which promated our organisation, that our plans have proved worthy and sound," said Prof. F. R. Moulton of the University of Chicago, secretary of the society and widely known scientist and inventor. We believed the most hopeful remedy for existing conditions was in the extension of visual education. Psychologists have told us that 85 percent of our thinking is in terms of visual image. The experience of every one of us confirms the statement. Of all the various means of visual education, motion pictures are proving of the most import, and until but recently, the least used. They are the most important because life and the processes essential to life are dynamic and in motion—a static world is dead.

"The film work of the Junior and American Red Cross has been entrusted to us, and the International Health Board, the W. C. T. U., and numerous organisations, witnessing the results of this work, are calling upon us to film subjects for them. State departments of education, welfare organisations, civic and commercial associations, and particularly the schools, are co-operating. The former in a number of states are buying the films outright for state distribution, while others serve as distributors for films obtained from the society.

"Visual education has not trespassed upon the commercial movie, nor will it Our work does not seek to amuse but to translate into realities what often are only words. Neither do we propose to displace text books, models, maps or any other educational means, but to supplement them. Our subjects are filmed for universal instruction. What may be too advanced for a pupil today, three years hence will be just as good. Our subjects are made to fit the time of need, and our machines so built that any part of the picture can be stilled and a teacher dwell for any length of time on a salient feature. The camera having the advantage of position, it permits the pupil to observe from every angle."

The reels dealing with the study of nature are in the greatest demand, according to Prof. Moulton.

All of the subjects are treated as systematically as books are written, Prof. Moulton explained, and in such a way as to supplement textbooks, laboratories and other means of giving instruction. Schools are becoming better equipped to handle the films, the society having evolved a composite and simple-operating machine to assist in the work.

After a girl has once made up her mind to be a spinster she won't change it unless some man proposes.

It is said that a soft answer turneth away wrath, but occasionally a soft answer starts a matrimonial engagement which ends in war.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 5, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each down ¼d in London yesterday. As it was a holiday in New York No advices have been received from there but the London-New York cross rate as cabled from London is 455⅝. The only changes in our official quotations here-today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 68¾ and in the Franc rate to 1155.

Our market here this morning opened easy but became firm later in the day. The lowest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3/0½ for July delivery. 3/0⅞ August and 3/0⅝ for September. The lowest rates for Gold Dollars were 69¼ for July, 69⅛ August and 69 September.

However there were good sellers at these rates and as speculators became very strong sellers in the course of the day, the market quickly firmed up closing with sellers of Sterling at 3/0⅝ for July delivery, 3/0⅝ August and 3/0⅞ September.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 69⅜ for July, and 69⅝ for August-September. These were sellers of Yen at 70⅛ for July and 70¼ for August.

Banks were quoting 3/1¼ for Sterling bills for near delivery and 3/1⅜ for forward.

They were quoting 71½ for Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 71⅝ for forward. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1175.

China both bought and sold silver in London yesterday and Indian Bears also bought, the market closing steady.

Exchange Market

In their weekly circular on the Exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—The London price of silver at 31 1/16d. is ⅛d. lower than last week. The quotation for forward is 30⅜d.

Our official rate for T.T. on London followed with a drop of ¼d. to 3/0½d.

The demand for Gold T.T. has been large, with very little cover offering in the shape of Export paper. We close weak with 3/0½ offering for cash only.

About Tls. 4,000,000 value of silver in due to arrive during July.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 22,020,000, an increase of Tls. 50,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $35,420,000, an increase of $160,000.

Estimated value Tls. 48,522,000 as against Tls. 57,106,000 held at this time last year.

Drivers Of Carts Strike And Then Go Back To Work

Seventy-five mafoos employed as drivers of municipal water carts, stone carts and garbage carts in the western district celebrated the Fourth of July by striking for higher wages. This action called forth from the Public Works Department a notice to the mafoos that unless they returned to work by this morning none of them would be reinstated.

The effect of the notice was immediate, for all of the men returned to duty early yesterday.

HEART PAIN'S CAUSE
Is Most Often Anaemia.

Cure It By Building Up Your Blood.

Many women who have thin blood, and whose nerves are unstrung, complain of a sensation around the heart which they describe as 'stifling.' It is an alarming symptom of anaemia, or thin blood, which disappears when the blood is built up and the anaemia overcome.

The first place where anaemia or thin blood shows is in the lips and gums, which become blanched, and in the membranes that line the eyelids. You may be naturally pale and still be healthy, but when these membranes lose their bright red color your blood is deficient in quality or quantity.

Thin blood is a danger; it invites disease, because it is too weak to fight the disease germs that are continually trying to invade the system. To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks and lips, and drive away unnatural tired feeling.

Tens of thousands of weak women, and men too, have regained health and strength by the use of

during the past thirty years. You can begin your own cure without delay, for the world-famous Pills are obtainable from medicine vendors everywhere, also direct and post free, I bottle for $1.50, six for $8, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

The Dempsey Fight

LOVERS of ring flisticuffs received the news of the outcome of the Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons match in the little town of Shelby, Montana, with surprise. Ninety-nine out of every hundred, in Shanghai at least, expected Jack to defeat Tommy in a round or two. That the Minnesota battler would be able to stay the 15 round limit was never seriously considered.

The entire match, it may be said, was a fiasco. In the first place it clearly shows one of two things—that Dempsey has either gone back a great deal from the high days of his triumph over Jess Willard, or that Gibbons has vastly improved.

The champion has been, and still is, a great fighter. The Jack Dempsey of a year or so ago, however, is evidently not the Jack Dempsey of today. He will have to fight a real fight now against Gibbons or the toughest man he can find before he will be restored in the good graces of the American sporting fraternity. His fight against Gibbons was entirely unsatisfactory.

Many champions of previous years have lost their punch chiefly because of their changed mode of living. Most of them couldn't stand prosperity. Dempsey is not of that sort. He has never had any vicious habits and it may be that this none-too-good showing is due simply to his long lay-off. In any event the only way in which he can redeem himself in the eyes of the sports-lovers of the world is to pick out the man the majority think is the toughest nut to crack, and lick him.

The match was very poorly handled. It was insane to pick out a small one-railroad Western town with no hotel accommodations to handle a championship battle, and particularly when Luis Firpo, the South American champion, is fighting in Pittsburgh tomorrow. It should be a warning to match-makers in the future, if they need warning after the enormous losses they have sustained. Championship fights should be held in the big centers where the fight-fans who make the game profitable live and have their beans. It was nothing short of criminal to try to draw them thousands of miles from their homes and their businesses, and they showed their good sense, even at the cost of missing a championship battle, by refusing to be drawn.

The Mark Twain Burglar

A certain author earned the above title because he had broken into great humorist's house. Later, relating in happy mood his experience, he recalled that Twain caused the following notice to be placed over his dining-room door after the burglary:

TO THE NEXT BURGLAR

There is only plated ware in this house now, and henceforth.

You will find it in that brass thing in the dining-room over in the corner by the basket of kittens.

If you want the basket, put the kittens in the brass thing.

Do not make a noise—it disturbs the family.

You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has umbrellas in it—chiffonier, I think they call it, or pergola, or something like that.

Very truly yours,
S. L. Clemens.

If it takes Jack the Giant Killer fifteen rounds to win on points from Tommy Gibbons how long will it take for one of the local ballet masters to teach a Ningpo oyster how to warble 'Here Comes The Bride' in Esperanto.

Correspondence

KIANGSI AFFAIRS AND KULING

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir: While rumor is so rife it is well to have a true account of recent happenings in relation to the safety of those who plan to spend the summer months on Kuling and at other mountain resorts in the Province of Kiangsi. At the moment of writing both General Wu of Kiukiang and also General Wang in charge of the Northern troops which are operating in the south of the province and in Kwantung are now on Kuling, and the latter is now arranging for his wife and family to come down from Peking to spend the summer in Kuling; these facts in themselves should go to show that the native Chiefs feel that this quarter is secure from molestation by the pending hostilities, and should satisfy foreigners that they are quite safe in adopting Kuling as their rendezvous for the hot season.

The writer is a native of this part and he is always in direct touch with the Chinese authorities; for the last three weeks he has been travelling through the south of the province, having visited Foochow, Changshu and Likiatu quite recently.

Nanchang the Capital has had its anxieties during the last fortnight, but now that the Honan troops have been sent south to Kanchow and the city and country-side are in control of the Northern forces, chiefly Shantung troops which are faithful to the Provincial Governor or Tuchun, business is going on as briskly as ever and the people are feeling that the danger has passed for the present. The disorders reported not long ago in the south of the province and particularly at Likitau, 130 miles south of Kiukiang, were caused by stragglers and deserters from the forces that were sent two or three months ago into Fukien province and who have only recently returned from Yenping. The writer visited Likiatu two days after the riot in which fifty or more of these troops looted and burnt thirty seven of the wealthiest shops in the village. The natives of course in this district are still nervous and shall be for some considerable time until troop formations are withdrawn from their vicinity, but on making investigations with the authorities the writer was told that these deserters had been rounded up and that loyal troops had been sent down from Foochow to police the district, and no further trouble was anticipated.

At each place the writer has visited he has only received the greatest courtesy from the local authorities and Military; the troops in control of the province are almost all Shantung men, and the writer has heard of no cases of disorder among them, and their Officers and Commanders seem to be in complete control, also these Officers have shown the writer every kindness.

The writer begs to submit these impressions for the benefit of those who are inclined to be anxious regarding the outcome of hostilities between the Northern Government and the constantly warring factions of the South, namely in Fukien and Kwantung.

J. P. R. Nanchang.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

"The great things I so bravely thought
And promised I would do
Are still undone," he said; "I've brought
No treasure home to you.
I have not lacked the will to try,
Nor weakened in defeat,
But other men have passed me by,
And Chance has been a cheat.

"Your beauty is not dimmed; your youth
Is still in lovely bloom,
But I've no heart to hide the truth,
Nor vainly to presume;
With you to cheer me and to guide
I should not blindly fail,
Yet daily I am thrust aside
Where stronger men prevail.

"I have not brought you splendid ease,
No gems glow on your breast;
The promised pride and luxuries
Are distant still, at best,
And one from whom you turned, today
Passed with a lofty sneer;
The price is heavy that you pay.
And mine's the fault, my dear."

"I have not blamed you," she replied,
"By look or word or thought,
For greater than the things denied
Is that which you have brought:
If you have lagged or stumbled where
Men hasten to success,
You have not let me cease to care
To claim your glad caress."

Berlin Two Distinct Capitals

BY CLARE SHERIDAN

Berlin.—There are two Berlins. The great wide-spreading Tiergarten divides them. On one side is the locality through which runs the great avenue called "Kurfuerstendamm." Here if one occasionally hears German spoken, one turns round out of curiosity to look at the stranger. All the streets are wide and avenued with trees and have an appearance almost of Paris. In this half of Berlin it is safe to speak French, for there one is in Russia.

Russian newspapers are sold on the street corners. Innumerable book shops are full of exquisite new publications of which not a volume is in any language but Russian. Cake shops are stocked with Russian specialties, and in the restaurants at night troupes of Cziganes sing or else there are balalaika orchestras.

Russian Berlin lives its life serenely indifferent to the political controversies and problems that cause such a tension in the air of German Berlin. There is a languid interest in the Ruhr events (in contrast to the active interest taken by the Russian Embassy!). There are hardly any Bolshevik Russians in Berlin, for they are all inside Russia intent on reconstruction.

There is a night club, run by an emigree lady philanthropist in the interests of those who are lonely and sad and need cheering. In a big, rather smoky room I found groups of people sitting round the wall at little tables where they enjoyed lemonade and cakes. Various games were being organised. There was a competition in love letters, all of which were read out loud and the winner selected by vote. Then followed a quadrille. (In the days of my youth there used to be quadrilles at Dublin Castle, or in Government House, Ottawa. But those days seemed long past.)

I protested, when invited, that I could only jazz, and that I would prefer to look on. I insisted, so did the only young man in the room. We watched these old people dance their quadrille, led by a most able Russian nobleman whose obvious specialty was the leading of cotillons. At the piano was an old, old man, white-haired and bent, the late Czar's master of ceremonies.

The young man at my side was of good family and had at eighteen murdered and robbed an actress in Petrograd. For this he had been arrested but on account of his youth had been spared capital punishment. The scandal was hushed up and later the boy escaped from prison and spent ten years in America. The revolution, which in its turmoil has obliterated much, enabled him to return and take a place among his exiled countrymen. For some days after the party this young man dogged my steps and importuned me with attentions of which I suspected the motives. My suspicions were proved correct when, six days later, he was arrested and put in prison as a proved French spy.

The Russians of Berlin, like all real Russians, are full of charm and talent and culture, but these belong to an age that is past. For them Russia can never more be a home and they can contribute nothing to the regeneration of Russia. The old royalists of the evening club can be described only by the French word "revenant." It is a word that means something more than ghost; it means "the dead returned."

They contribute to the amazingly impersonal character of Berlin. They have settled down to a dull routine of life, satisfied by the low standard of living and accepting the bourgeois conditions of life that a German Government protects. They are the bourgeoisie that the new Russia didn't want, and they have appropriately found their environment in the midst of a nation emblematical of crumbling bourgeoisie.

On the other side of the Tiergarten is the cosmopolitan Berlin of Unter den Linden, with its embassies, big hotels full of international speculators, and the sheiba shops. Here is the famous Wilhelmstrasse, with its Government offices, representing the German spirit of the past, now fitfully slumbering. The big empty palaces of the Kaiser and Crown Prince, like giant coffins, seem to proclaim that something is dead. There is a general sense of decomposition.

It is not easy to find German Berlin if one is a foreigner, but one can see it on holidays. During Easter week-end Germans emerged from their background into the sunlight of the Tiergarten in masses, dressed in their Sunday best. Great, calm, slow-moving, unsmiling crowds with well disciplined children who never seem to cry or scream or make a noise. There was a total absence of the English bank-holiday spirit, nor did they in the least resemble psychologically the crowd one sees on a Sunday in Central Park, New York.

These crowds—in England as in New York—seem to represent a real proletarian class which has a certain spontaneous capacity for merriment and mischief. In German Berlin on a feast day one is inclined to wonder whether Germany is entirely middle class. There is neither elegance nor proletariat. But Germans have something in their souls that cures all parties and classes into a common brotherhood.

I discovered this deep-buried secret of theirs when, coming home one evening along the Tiergarten Strasse, my taxi was held up by a crowd. This was caused by a platoon of soldiers, with a band at their head, a rare sight and sound in Berlin nowadays. The faces of the crowd were a most interesting psychological study, and confirmed in my mind the impression that Germany cannot be roused by foreign bayonets, nor by monarchical plots, nor even by hunger. Germany can only be roused by the drum. Germany cannot be goaded, but she could be led.

After weeks spent in the midst of this calm and apparently apathetic people, who seldom smile, it was astounding to see the transformation of faces as the military march passed by. Every one's face lit up with a smile of radiancy. The car and the cart drivers, the men cleaning the roads, gentlemen with portfolios—every one smiled.

And the soldiers themselves: I looked at their faces. Hard, inscrutable, clear-cut, like some modern drawing. They seemed to march with sullen determination, like men who mean some day to do their duty.

And then they turned up a side road and my taxi plunged ahead and the scene was lost. But I realised that two nations in the world are not yet tired of war. France is not tired, from what I have seen in the Ruhr, and Germany is longing to be avenged. But France has learned one lesson. She does not mean to have the next war fought upon French soil.

Fascism In Japan

After all, Fascism is only what we had to expect. The Socialist leaders, while anxious enough to make converts, have been inclined to underrate the opposition that could be mustered among people of the class which they sought to enrol complete under the "workers'" banner. The opposition has taken different forms in different countries, and it is Italy which has given form and name to the movement, and which has led the way in making it a definite, dynamic, reactionary movement. It is a tyranny which some day will be washed away in blood, but for the time being it is successful. The fact that it has brought home to Socialists everywhere is that there are a large number of people of the poorer as well as the wealthier classes who dread the idea of change and will fight against it. All who stand in any sort of feudal relationship to the more powerful, all who depend for their living on the patronage of the well-to-do, and whose dependence is a comfortable one, are just as distrustful of any of the changes looked for by Socialists as are those whose wealth predisposes them to see in the present dispensation the only possible basis for society. In England considerable progress has been made towards bringing the feudal-minded over into the reform camp, but even there it is the big trade unions which are the strongholds of Socialistic aspiration. In the United States, on the other hand, some of the greatest unions—all those, it might be said, who regard Mr. Gompers as a progressive—have a distinctly Fascist complexion, the casual fluid labor forming the radical element. In Russia it was the peasantry who bridled the Communists, bringing them to heel in a manner which the Great Powers had found impossible.

Japan was not to escape this singular outburst of reaction. In this country as in all others there has been a great deal of unrest, and though trade unionism and the ideas of Socialism are hardly out of their embryo stage, the country's rulers are second to none in their dread of change. Their successful emergence from a revolution half a century ago seems to have created the greatest dread of another. Consequently there are from time to time relentless persecutions of movements such as would prepare for the change. Change is inevitable, and it is those who seek to prevent it who will be responsible for the violence with which it may ultimately come. It is only because Japan is far removed from Western lands, linguistically as well as geographically, that she has left to Italy the honor of creating a name for the anti-Socialist movement; for before Fascism was heard of—perhaps before it was thought of—Japan had the Kokusuikai, or Nationalist Spirit Society. Those who have been in Japan for the past three or four years are familiar with this name. The men claim to be descendants of the otokodate, the imitation samurai who used to take it upon themselves to keep order when they chose in old Yedo, and who have been described as a sort of Robin Hood organisation, though it is hardly complimentary to that distinguished outlaw so to name them. The Kokusuikai came into being under the most distinguished patronage—that of Mr. Tokonami Home Minister in the Hara Cabinet, who, it is true, disclaimed having invited the leaders to Tokio to inaugurate their society, but nevertheless shed the light of his countenance upon them. To tell the truth, the Kokusuikai have been a little ineffective. They are about as respectable as the Italian Fascisti, but less vigorous. They have interfered with strikes several times and beaten the strikers when in sufficiently superior force to make the operation quite safe; but they are mostly arrant cowards, and life members of the Safety First Club. Their claim to be the descendants of the otokodate may or may not be justified. If it is justified, it is a curious case of hereditary occupation changing without a dispersal. The present-day otokodate are said to be nearly all professional gamblers and contractors' gangmen. Naturally, though they have succeeded in getting a general officer for president, they have not yet found their Mussolini. If Mr. Tokonami had expected that they would, he would probably have thought twice about patronising them. His idea was simply that this energy should be directed in patriotic channels instead of possibly running to worse than waste at times when there are so many revolutionary mischief-makers about.

Perhaps because of the ineffectiveness of the Kokusuikai, there have been various other reactionary bodies started with the object of saving the State. One has the revolutionary name of the League for the Destruction of the Status Quo, but it is essentially a reactionary gang, anxious for its turn at the loaves and fishes, but revolutionary in no other sense. The Kokusuikai were only bullies—the development, in a fashion of the gangs of soshi attached to political parties, but less individualistic, only ready for any direct action that the powers that happen to be might require. The League for the Destruction of the Status Quo is revolutionary in the same sense as Mussolini. It aims at political control in the interests of the men who hold the economic strings. There is yet another party, the Genri Nihon Gun, or Japanese Military Principle Society, which, though young already has as a nickname the "Violence Party," which is said to enjoy very distinguished political and commercial patronage, and which is also ready for action in the way of law and order. The members, it is said, are prepared to deal properly with exorbitant landlords among other people. The otokodate have been known to undertake like functions—at the expense of the already hard-pressed tenant—without any result. This Genri Nihon Gun has already been concerned in some affair which may not be reported—though some of the papers seem to be privileged to do so.

We also have the Waseda Military Study Society, and many other reactionary societies. Some years ago the village young men's societies were standardised, brought under official patronage, and directed generally into the right path; they, on the whole, have been rather a disappointment. They did take the uniformity of hue that was desired, for while some might have been branches of the Kokusuikai, others began to think very dangerous thoughts. A large part of them would rally to the Fascist law-and-order slogan, but such a summons would be given with much reluctance, because it would send the others off in an opposite direction. Taking it all round, there are plentiful elements of Fascism in Japan, but at present they are running in diverse directions. It is just the same with the reform elements. They too lack organisation and common intert. But it is noticeable that the main lines of political development in other countries have their counterparts in Japan, and are ready for a similar development, given similar circumstances. The "law and order" element is strong in Japan, but on the other hand there are many who are beginning to question what they formerly received as dogma. The leading bureaucrats are watching the developments on both sides with no little anxiety. But as for tackling the problems that bring these conditions into existence, the Japanese statesmen are no more likely to do so than their Western confreres.—Japan Chronicle.

Across The Breakfast Table

By Mr. and Mrs. W. L. George

Allowances For Women

Mrs. George: I wish you'd lend me a hundred dollars; I want it for Jane, who has no money as usual. You know, her husband won't give her an allowance, and I think it's simply disgraceful. She says this month has been such a heavy one that she hasn't a cent and doesn't dare to ask him for any more. You know, dear, if you didn't give me an allowance, I'd divorce you; I couldn't stand the humiliation of having to ask you for money to buy you a birthday present, and Jane literally has to do that. How a decent man can want to keep his wife in such an undignified position I really can't understand.

Mr. George: I agree with you on the whole, for—(sardonicly)—giving a wife an allowance saves one trouble in spending one's own money. But, joking apart, I do agree; a woman's got to be free and equal and all that sort of thing, only in the case there's a little difficulty. Jane is sweet, but she's a regular little fool; she wastes her money as soon as she gets it. Only a month ago she bought a pianoplayer, and has now got tired of it and is selling it for a quarter what it cost.

Mrs. George (severely): I know, but there wouldn't be so many silly wives if their husbands gave them credit for a little sense. How can you expect Jane to be a responsible person when her husband has no confidence in her? If she knew that she had an allowance and that if she exceeded it there would be no more to come, that would teach her to manage her money. I knew perfectly well that Jane hasn't got much sense; if she got responsibility that would give her sense.

What Is New York's Greatest Sight?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

A friend of mine from a distant town, who had not seen New York City in many years, came not long ago to view its twentieth century splendor, and what do you suppose he selected as the most interesting sight?

Not the twenty, thirty and forty story buildings, piercing and shouldering the sky; not the subways, transporting millions under streets, parks and rivers; not the mighty bridges, linking the huge swarming boroughs; not the great financial whirlpool, with its flotsam and jetsam; no, none of these but—the big Museum of Natural History in Central Park West.

From that he could not tear himself away. During his stay he went day after day to wander delightedly through its wonderful halls. He is not a naturalist or a scientist, but he has an open, inquiring and instructed mind. He also discovered a great deal in the Metropolitan Museum of Art to hold his attention. But his chief interest was in the vast history and picture of the world to be found on the other side of the park.

As he stood in the hall of the giant vertebrates he quaintly remarked:

"Adam hadn't a chance to give names to those fellows."

Of the enormous sections of tree trunks changed into agate, chalcedony, jasper and semi-coal, of strange and gorgeous coloring, he said:

"Why doesn't one of your multi-millionaires build a palace out of petrified trees? Solomon couldn't beat it."

The big iron meteorites fascinated him. 'What a smash they must have made when they fell," was one o his comments; and another was, "Nickelised iron, hey? Well, making that must have been what old Vulcan was about before they kicked him out of Heaven."

He was equally interested in the various exhibits showing the evolution of man, an of animals preceding man. "They ought to led Mr. Bryan in here," he said, and see what kind of a cud he could make out of that."

Near the entrance one day he stopped to look at a most remarkable and beautiful specimen of glacial grooving on a gigantic scale. Many a visitor on seeing it has supposed it to be the work of a stonecutter. My friend gazed at it a long time, and felt over it with his fingers. Then, shaking his head, he turned away, saying:

"The work of the ice! Jack Frost turned from window decorating to stone carving! I'll believe anything now."

The fact is that in this matter of great public museums, as in many other things, city dwellers seldom appreciate their advantages. There are certain things which must be seen to be believed and understood. The reading of a hundred volumes could not be so effective in removing prejudices and misunderstandings arising either from ignorance or from erroneous teaching as one or two thoughtful and attentive visits to such collections as are now systematically displayed at the Museum of Natural History. It is an education to go there. I do not go as often as I should like to, but whenever I do go I come away instructed and stimulated.

The explorations undertaken, and not yet finished, by agents and officials of the museum in the all but abandoned heart of the greatest of the earth's continents, old Asia, has brought to light unexpected wonders of archaeology and palaeontology, and many of the transportable things discovered are sent on to be exhibited in the halls in New York.

An instance is furnished by the specimen of the great Baluchitherium, which has been described as "perhaps the most gigantic land mammal of all time." The creature was a hornless rhinoceros of monstrous dimensions. The specimen in question was found in 1922 in northeast of the Altai Mountains.

Several days were expended in working it out of the earth. It was transported across the Mongolian desert to Peking and was received in New York within five months after its discovery. When my friend visits New York again I shall be curious to hear his remarks on the Baluchitherium.

Chihli Faction In Big Tangle Over Presidency

Peking, July 4.—The supreme question of the presidency now has become a subject of disagreement among the satellites of the Chihli faction. The Chihlites may be put into two different categories so far as their political philosophy is concerned. Many of the party's politicians advocate the adoption of emergency measures in case the legal procedure fails. Others contend that Tsao Kun must be elevated to the presidency through the National Assembly.

The Tientsin conference was a mystery to many Chihlites, hence misunderstandings arose. Unable to have a lion's share in the division of spoils, many officials chose to return to Peking instead of playing assigned role in Tientsin.

The Chihli potentate is said to be too stingy to pay for his election to the presidency, making it fruitless for the campaign enthusiasts to go on with their work. The situation has been deadlocked. To cap the climax, no militarist has the heart and courage to sign his name in support of the Chihli Cheftain for the presidency, each militarist being eager to popularise himself.

The Paotingfu conference is in the process of making. Whether the confreres will stand behind Tsao Kun as a unit remains an unknown quantity. Tsao's entourage advises him not to give up this unique opportunity to make for himself a reputation the Chihli faction will be proud of.

GENERAL WU TALKS

Loyang is fast becoming a center of intrigues and negotiation. Gen. Wu Pei-fu is constantly besieged by a crowd of parliamentarians whose motive is to talk him up into espousing the cause of the Chihli Party. One representative had this to say, "It is desirable that you should lead the militarists in the presidential campaign. True it is that you are opposed to expelling Li Yuan-hung from the Metropolis, but his expulsion is a fait accompli. The time has come for you to work co-operatively with Tsao Kun whose downfall is really your own".

Replying to this eloquent appeal, the Loyang Inspector-General said, "My loyalty to Tsao is not to be questioned, for we have been on most cordial terms for the twenty-five years. None but the foolish will attempt to sow seeds of discord and jealousy between Tsao and me. We need no mediator or middle-man to put us together.

"With regard to the expulsion of Li Yuan-hung from the Capital, I was kept in the dark until I received a message from General Wang Chen-ping informing me that he had completed the coup d'etat. I am always faithful to my leader."

BAITS FOR WU

Many political intriguers are trying to pull Marshal Wu into the presidential whirlpool, saying that if Wu had made a candid declaration of his attitude toward the presidential election, the military authorities in the provinces would not have lingered behind.

"The provincial militarists look to you for leadership and action. If you keep your mouth tightly shut, the supreme question would prove a fiasco, nay, a laughing-stock", said a political leader.

Marshal Wu replied, "Li Yuan-hung's followers have been advising me to sever my allegiance to the Paotingfu leader. They create rumors that we have been at loggerheads, but that does not harm us. Li sent several telegrams to me reprimanding me for ruining his reputation and life. I have to bear this continuous insult, for it is the Chihli militarists who re-instated him in office as President of China following the reconvocation of the dissolved Parliament. For the Chihli forces to expel Li from Peking is simply impossible of explanation. My heart is broken".

However, experienced observers say that the Loyang leader will sooner or later be pulled into the presidential game.

ANOTHER ANGLE

Speaker Wu Ching-lien arrived in Tientsin incognito. He is negotiating with the Tientsin leaders, and his mission will soon be accomplished.

It is alleged that Speaker Wu proposes to bring Tsao Kun to Peking to act as Premier when Marshal Tsao will be authorised by the Parliament to assume the functions of the President.

Speaker Wu has sent out a boundle of telegrams to the tuchuns and Inspector-generals in the provinces with the object of sounding out their attitude towards his proposal.

Hot with indignation at the treatment accorded to them by the Tientsin politicians, the representatives of political factions in Peking directed their steps towards Paotingfu where a big ovation was extended to them by Tsao Kun who had put up quite a number of beds for these delegates in his palatial garden.

These representatives warned the Chihli leader against resorting to the rule of the club in carrying out the presidential election. Many delegates returned to Peking immediately after this interview, others went to Loyang to confer with Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

GEN. FENG ADVISES

General Feng Yu-hsiang is the idol of the hour in the eyes of the Chihlites, not because he is a successful, but because he has good and timely advices to give. Of course, he was largely instrumental in forcing Li Yuan-hung out of office.

The Christian general is reported to have sent Chen Chi-lung to Paotingfu to take a memorandum to Tsao Kun for perusal. General Feng said that the Paotingfu leader should establish himself legally, win the sympathy of the Diplomatic Corps for the Chihli cause, raise sufficient funds to run business, recruit influential and popular statesmen to do the work for him, ally himself with the representatives of all political factions, and win the heart of the people and so be elected to the presidency. General Feng's memorandum gave the Paotingfu Chieftain not a little pleasure.

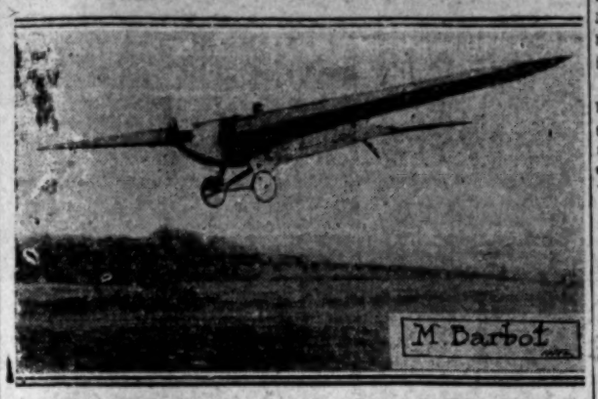
Frenchman Glides Across English Channel



USING less than $1 worth of gasoline, which costs twice as much in France as it does in the United States, a daring French flier, M. Barbot, has completed a round trip flight across the English Channel in a "flivver" airplane, powered only with a 15-horsepower engine. He intends to come to America and attempt to fly in the same machine from New York to Chicago.

Two Fined In Traffic Case

Two traffic cases were heard yesterday before Mr. D. R. Cooke at the British Police Court.

Y. S. Kumsoo, of 216 Thibet Road, was fined $15 for driving a car without a licence. P. S. Sullivan and P. C. Hermitage gave evidence.

C. F. Lassoe, 71 Rue de Say Zoong, was ordered to pay $4 for ranking his car, 2839, on the north side of Hankow Road on June 13, and between two special warning notices. Defendant said he used his car like a ricksha and it was a great inconvenience to him if he were not allowed to put his car near the office. The Magistrate said the Police must be sustained in the matter of control of traffic.

Age Of Medicine, Says British Expert

London—Cholera, plague, typhus, typhoid, smallpox, tuberculosis and malaria have at last become controllable, says Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the British government. The antitoxin treatment of diphtheria has reduced the death-rate in that disease from 29.8 percent. in 1890 to 9.3 percent. in 1922, which means that 200 additional lives are saved in every 1 000 cases. In 1871 enteric fever claimed 374 lives in each million of the population; in 1922 it was 12 in each million.

"We are living in the golden age of medicine," says Sir George. "Unperceived it is rapidly changing the face of the world and the destinies of men. The extension of the frontiers of life is assisted by fresh air and sunlight in dwellings, sanitation of workshops, wholesome water and food supply, and the isolation of infectious persons. The result of this is seen in the fact that every child born today has an expectation of 12 years more life than had his grandfather."
